1 eternity bands Diamond eternity bands match every taste and almost every style of ring. I love the way they brighten up an engagement ring or a ring that's been worn for 35 years. Eternity bands are something that everyone loves, both male and female, and no matter what you put them with, they look fabulous.

2 wide bands Not everyone can wear a wide band, so it's fulfilling to find a unique wide mounting that looks incredible on a hand that complements it. Working with a woman who wants something different and whose fingers are not the perfect size 6 make it a challenging exercise, but when it's done, it's very satisfying.

3 one-of-a-kind designs When I have the ability to work with a customer who is artistic and likes non-traditional pieces, I am doing what I love to do best: incorporating my design and the desires of my customer, and forming a partnership to create a design that we are both proud of. It makes for a lifelong relationship.

4 lagos jewelry I love Lagos designs because they symbolize the personality of a fine designer. Mixing two colors of precious metal and high-quality color gemstones results in a piece that is cherished forever. (Besides, there are always a lot of pieces that match to add on in the future!)

5 current fashion chain What I love about asymmetrical long chains is the versatility they offer the wearer. Doubling them up, shortening them, taking them apart and making two separate pieces out of them ... all make the wearer participate in the design. I see the light in my customers' eyes when I show them all the things you can do with one piece of jewelry.

6 pearls There is nothing more enjoyable than putting a fabulous strand of pearls in front of my customers' eyes and letting them appreciate the joy that comes from seeing, holding and touching them. A fine strand of pearls, whether they are round, baroque, South Sea, Tahitian, or irregularly-shaped, appeals to a quality customer no matter what age they are.
